

Complete cover

BE Modern has launched a new 76 page brochure featuring its complete marble, timber and stone collections together with its ranges of gas and electric fires and electric suites.

As head of marketing Mark Hunter told us, "The new brochure is a significant investment aimed at providing retailers and customers alike with the best possible representation of all our products in a single publication."

The brochure features excellent photo-graphy of all the principal products in the ranges together with detailed specifications of the many options available including hearth variants for the marble collection.

Modestly described as a brochure, this new publication is truly a catalogue and more than adequately demonstrates the substantial depth to Be Modern's ranges of fireplace products.
